Itinerary

Day 1 Ypres → Zuydcoote → Leffrinckoucke → Dunkirk → Esquelbecq → Ypres

Dunkirk Operation Dynamo:

Depart from Ypres at 9.00am and drive towards Zuydcoote, a little French town from where most of the 338,000 troops were embarked on the British vessels. See the hospital just as you've seen in the movies, and if visiting at low tide, you can still see the remains of the wreck of the HMS Crested Eagle which was sunk on 29 May 1940.

In Leffrinckoucke, we visit the Fort des Dunes, designed by General Séré De Rivières. During WWII, the fort was at the heart of Operation Dynamo. You'll have time to visit the fort and the Operation Dynamo exhibition.

After lunch, visit the Museum Dunkerque 1940 Operation Dynamo, situated in some remaining parts of the defences of Dunkirk, where the French had their HQ, then see the beach where the movie Dunkirk was filmed.

On the return to Ypres, visit the Wormhout Memorial at Esquelbecq, the site of the Wormhout massacre, where British and French POWs were murdered by Waffen-SS soldiers.

Overnight stay at the New Regina Hotel in a Marketsquare view room.

🍴 Lunch

Day 2 Ypres → Cap Gris Nez → Eperlecques → Ypres

The Atlantic Wall V1 and V2 rockets:

After breakfast, departing Ypres at 9.00am, you'll drive towards Cap Gris Nez. The cliffs of the cape are the closest between France and England, only 34km. When the weather is clear, you can see Kent!

See some of the bunkers of the Atlantic Wall.

With our pre-selected Freedom of Choice options, you will have the opportunity to choose your visit for the remainder of the morning, the Todt Battery Bunker or the Musée 39-45 Ambleteuse.

Stop for lunch at Audresselles, one of the most beautiful villages in France, known for very good seafood, especially mussels.

After lunch, visit the Blockhaus de Eperlecques, the largest bunker built by the Nazis in Northern France. It was built to be a V2 launch site.

On the road back to Ypres, stop at the ruins of a V1 launch site hidden in the woods, see the ski shaped buildings and the assembly workshops.

🍴 Breakfast, Lunch

Freedom of Choice Options

- Todt Battery:

Built in 1942, not far from Cape Griz-Nez and pointing towards England, this formidable battery was one of the most important coastal fortifications of the Atlantic Wall.

Discover the daily life of German troops during WWII who lived & worked at the Battery.

OR

- Musée 39-45 Ambleteuse:

An interesting museum, focussing on WWII in Europe and particularly in France, though does cover the first campaigns in Poland right through to the Imperial Japanese surrender in 1945. This museum also has one of the best uniform collections with over 120 models. There is also a small cinema showing archive footage where you can relive the Normandy Landings and even the Liberation of Paris.
